ACVO helps people from ethnic minorities living with dementia

ACVO has been given an award from Life Changes Trust to undertake a project which supports people from ethnic minorities living with dementia.

'Widening Access for People from European Ethnic Minority Backgrounds' project seeks to work with people with dementia to identify barriers to engagement in dementia support in Aberdeen and to find solutions to these issues. The project aims to ensure that those with dementia diagnosis, their family and carers from European ethnic minority backgrounds are able to make the best use of dementia support available across the city.

If you are a person from European ethnic minority background living with dementia, know someone from a European ethnic minority background living with dementia or simply would like to find out more

Integration Refresh Strategy for third sector organisations

Organisations undertaking key work in the third sector are being asked to report back on how integration is working for their organisation and client base. The report will feed into the new strategy seeking to cover the big issues that Aberdonians face today with their health and wellbeing. A number of organisations have already been seen so if Matt Carle hasn't been in touch and you have something to say please email him on Matt.Carle@acvo.org.uk.

ACVO presentation to the Community Links Practitioners

The beginning of August saw ACVO give a presentation to the new Community Links Practitioners which have been recruited to Aberdeen City GP Practices. The three hours long presentation focussed on understanding the assets of the third sector and how to access them, as well as on the importance of social value, social impact and social inclusion. ACVO was delighted to support such an emerging team as part of the Integration Partnerships' Transformation Agenda.
